

LAW STUDENTS ASSOCIATION

Law Students' Association of Nigeria (LAWSAN), Crescent University Chapter, is a branch of National Law Students' Association of Nigeria. The Association's aim is to unify various law colleges across Nigeria through annual conventions, annual legislative summits and annual national games. Over the years, the national body through its unification mechanisms has attended to various issues affecting law students and study in Nigeria, most especially the issue of students' welfare. The students' association of Bola Ajibola College of Law is no exception to this. The branch constitution is mutatis mutandis a replica of the constitution of the national body.

The Bola Ajibola College of Law Students' Association brings the student government close to the college and the students through integration and interaction from various scopes ranging from culture, socials activities, to general education, guidance and counselling. The students' association operates a democratic government with three arms of government; executive, legislature and judiciary. The executive arm is headed by the President and assisted by the Vice-President. All members of the Executive are elected by the entire Law Students body. The executive arm, implement policies, maintain stability among the students and is the face the students' association.

The legislative arm on the other hand makes the laws, approves the budget and performs over-sight functions on the implementation of the budget and projects. This arm is headed by the Speaker, assisted by principal officers of the House of Representatives.

The judiciary serves as the last hope of man and it is perhaps the most important and independent arm of the association. Through the judiciary, law students have the opportunity to learn and put to practice professional skills by participation in the Bola Ajibola College of Law Moot Court competitions and exercises. The judiciary includes the office of the President of BACOLAW Bar Association, President of the Court of Appeal, Judges, Senior Advocates, Advocates and other judicial and para-legal officials.

The vision of the association is to keep thriving in its quest to maintain stability, integration and interaction of students. To put the college and students' association on the map worldwide through academic and moral excellence because LAWSAN is more than an association, it's a family.
